Attend short talks given by our doctors and scientists in which they explain their area of expertise, and then join in the question and answer sessions.

Light lunch at Sheba and return to the hotel to prepare for the evening Gala.

18:30 – depart the hotel for the festive joyful opening of Sheba Medical Center's much awaited 70th year Gala event.

Monday | June 18th

Observe Israel's cutting-edge technology and journey to space

A visit to SpacEL – Landing the first Israeli Spacecraft on the Moon.

SpacEL's goal is to inspire the next generation of children in Israel and around the world to think differently about science, technology, engineering and math (STEM). SpacEL is committed to using the Google Lunar X Prize money to promote science and scientific education in Israel, to ensure that Israel will continue to live up to its reputation for excellence in these fields.

SpacEL is collaborating with a range of educational partners in the development of learning platforms, content, and curriculum.

Following the visit we will make our way to Tel Aviv for a light "Pita lunch" at Hakosem.

After lunch explore Tel Aviv and see at close how the city was awarded with a UNESCO World Heritage Site named the White City.

In the 1920's and 30's a large number of Jewish architects, who had studied in Europe, moved to Tel Aviv. Wanting to recreate the culture of Europe in the hot climate of Israel, whilst integrating the modernist architectural style they had practiced, the group created a new architectural language, which is rich and diverse, characterized by its asymmetry, functionality and simplicity. The balconies, building pillars, flat roofs and "thermometer" windows have since become known as Bauhaus buildings, named after the Architecture School in pre-war Germany.

Evening tour of Tel Aviv to get a small taste of the city that never sleeps.

Farewell Dinner with Israel's top Chef Eyal Shani at a secret location, hosted by Israel's leading entertainer Einat Saruf.
